Once upon a time, an elephant lived in a forest. The elephant was very big, but it’s nose was short. Suddenly, it felt thirsty, but it’s nose was too short. It could not drink water.

Then, the elephant asked the Jade Emperor to help make it’s nose longer. However, the Jade Emperor said, “No.” Then, the elephant asked him again and again. Everyday, the Jade Emperor said, “No.” The elephant felt sad.

Then the elephant pulled it’s nose longer by itself. The Jade Emperor felt sorry. So, he make the elephant’s nose longer. From that day on, all elephants had long noses. They could drink water everyday.
